A Prayer For The Future

Heavenly Father in heaven, I know that at the appointed time I must die.

I do not know the year, the day, or the hour of my death.

I do not know if I shall die unexpectedly, or after a long illness, in full vigor or worn out by old age.

I do not know if I shall die at home or in a hospital, in pain or in peace, surrounded by family and friends or all alone.

And especially, dear Father, I do not know if, at the moment of my death,
I shall be conscious, be able to pray, to think of You, to welcome You.

And so, loving Father, today in full consciousness and in all freedom,

I offer to You my moment of separation from this earth, whatever, whenever and wherever it may be.

I offer it in submission to Your holy will.

I offer it as an act of repentance and hopefully, glorification of your Most Holy Name.

Eternal Father, in advance, I renounce all that could be contrary to what I now profess.

Daily I pray my death may be enfolded in faith, hope and love.

Grant me the grace to remain faithful and persevere until the very end of earthly life.

If doubts or despair tempt me, if pain or medication hinder my thinking of You,

I ask You, loving Father to pay no heed to these, but be mindful of this prayer I offer to You today.

Eternal and all-adorable Father, through the grace of Jesus Christ my Saviour and the intercession of the ever-Virgin Mary, my Mother, and all saints, I say to You today for the moment of my death:

I confide all my past, my present, my earthly future in your hands.

For grace richly and undeservedly bestowed and enriching, I thank You, for want of faithfulness, I beg forgiveness.

I believe, I hope and I trust in You.

For all eternity, I wish to remain enveloped by Your love.

Amen.
